WILL BE NO STRIKE.

The Ironworkers Intend to Modify and Revise Their Scale.

ABOUT THE SAME AS LAST YEAR'S.

Manufacturers, Having No Organization, Will Act Each for Himself,

PRESIDENT CAMPBELL'S PUSILADE

There will be no strike in the iron and steel industries this year, and, although the manufacturers have refused to hold a conference with the workers, there seems to have been some sort of an understanding between both sides.

The Manufacturers' Association has been dissolved, but the Western Iron Association is still in existence, and Joseph D. Weeks is still the Secretary of that organization. The manufacturers have not had any communication with the workers on the wage scale, and, although they have met and discussed the ituation, nothing has yet been published of their action. Secretary Weeks was authorized, as an official of the association, evidently, to write the following editorial, which will appear in the current issue of the American Manufacturer, and voices the opinion of the iron

NO GENERAL ACTION.

The annual convention of the Amalgamated As-sociation of Iron and Steel Workers, which began its session in this city Tuesday, has attracted less attention to itself than usual. That its sessions and what it is reported is being done at them oc-cupy so little of the attention of the country. cupy so little of the attention of the country, even of those most interested in the results at present, is due to the overshadowing importance of the awful calamity at Johnstown; but this does not account for the unusual lack of interest manifested in its probable outcome that preceded its convening. This can only arise from a certain carelessness as to the result of the convention that may be due to one of two causes, either that the manufacturers propose to accept without a struggle whatevor may be demanded as wages and extras, or that they intend to contest whatever is offered.

gie winterer inny be demanded as wages and extras, or that they intend to contest whatever is offered.

Prior to the convention Mr. Welhe, as President of the Amalgamated Association, wrote Mr. Weeks, who was Secretary of the Association of Manufacturers of Iron, Steel and Nalla, asking for the appointment of the usual Committee of Conference. Mr. Weeks replied that the association was out of existence, and there was no way to secure the appointment of a committee to represent it, and it is understood that quite a number of littsburg iron manufacturers positively refused, when approached on the subject, to have anything to do with the appointment of a committee, indicating that whatever they decided to do they would do as individual works.

It is evident that whether there will be a fight or not will depend upon what the association demands. If the demand is practically last year's cale, without any "stakes" in the shape of new extras or new clauses, it will be conceded by most of the mills without as contest, but if there are material changes either in the scales as at present in force or in the addition of new scales, such as roll atmers or engineers, or if there are material changes in the extras, then there will be contests. Some mills will sign the scale, others will fight.

And the experience of the past shows that these individual contests have a better chance for success than those which are general. There are elements of weakness in a struggle that involves a number of mills that do not exist when men are aghing alone. Anyone who has watched the history of the struggles of individual mills against the Amalgamated knows that in every case when a determined struggle has been made, the Amalgamated has been defeated. Take the case of W. D. Wood & Co., the National Tube Works, Parks, Clark, Dilworth, Porter & Co., Duquesme and others. The history of the Amalgamated has been defeated. Take the case of W. D. Wood & Co., the National Tube Works, Parks, Clark, Dilworth, Porter & Co., Duquesme and others. The hi

When he came down to the statement that the association had been defeated at the mills named he became rather indignant, and said that no firm, no matter what their wealth or capital, have beaten the Amalgamated Association. It was the workmen themselves that did it, and they regret their action now.

The session of the Amalgamated Convention this scale that will be presented to the manu-tecturers was completed and will be presented t once. Although the convention decided not make known what wages had been decided on, a DISPATCH reporter learned that

It was decided to donate $300 to the Duquesne Steel Works strikers, and Messer, Hugh O'Donell, John Miller and Dennis O'Leary were appointed a committee to distribute the money.

THE GUIDE MILL SCALE, The scale in the guide mill is not at all satisfactory, and a committee was appointed to reauthorized to go outside of the convention to secure men to act on the committee, and the

A STINGING STATEMENT.

President Campbell, of the Window Glass Workers, Sets Out to Demolish His-Persecutors-He Swears They Are to Blame for All

The Window Glass Workers' Association officials have positively declined to be investigated on the importation of foreign glass blowers, and President Campbell has made a very important statement, which is given in substance below, revealing some things that have never before been made public. The statement is sworn to by Mr. Campbell, before Mayor McCallin, and will be printed in the Trouble.

Mayor McCalin, and will be printed in the official organ of his organization, the Commoner and Glassworker. Its gist is appended:

Mr. Campbell first gives a detailed statement as to how and why the Universal Federation of glass workers was formed in 1884, alleging that the case with which manufacturers here got union workmen from Europe at reduced wages had become a terrible menace to the industry. The foreign con-tract labor was not then in existance, and there was no way to displace the evil except by organizing the window glass workers of the world in perfect harmony. Isanc Cline, then President, and A. G. Denny, specially appointed, did much to A. G. Denny, specially appointed, did much to establish the harmony of relations between the two worlds in this industry. In this connection Local Assembly 300, K. of L., of which President Campbell is Master Workman, spent over $1,000 to build up the Federation, and is now paying over $1,000 a year to help organize the European workingmen. A further history of the growth and strengthening of the Federation by means of inter-communication and inter-employment at current wages follows, and then President Campbell jumps down on the manner in which L. A. 300 under President Cline, falled to vote down an apprentice limiting law, which was in itself, he alleges, cause for all the subsequent shortage of gines blowers and which necessitated the ultimate litting of foreign workmen. In this connection President Campbell says: "Every ruling that Cline wade while President on the apprentice law was against the apprentices learning their trade, and during Cline's serm of office the organization was directed against the American boys learning the trade, whether intended so or not.

THE EVIDENCE OF IT.

'The shortage of workmen in the last two years is antiletent evidence of that statement. Every ruling made by the former President relative to apprentices has been reversed by new rulings, making them as broad and liberal as it was possible to do. Last January one year ago, in my report for the first seven months' service as President of the assembly, I recommended that more blowers be learned.

As another cause for the mooted shortage of blowers he learned.

As another cause for the mosted shortage of blowers in this country, he adds: 'The development of natural gas has caused a large increase in the business, much larger than was expected. The fact is, there has not been enough learning to blow and gather, and upon the evidence furnished the committee by Cline and Gesener in 1856, the apprentice has was reduced. Every labor man at the head of any labor organisation knows full well that I' the President and Secretary had taken a stand against a reduction of apprentice percentage, the vote of the Assembly would not have about 9, 125 for a reduction of apprentice percentage, the vote of the Assembly would not have about 9, 125 for a reduction of apprentice percentage, the vote of the Assembly would not have about 9, 125 for a reduction of apprentice percentage, the vote of the Window Gless Workers' Association on or about January 1, 150, stating that the firm was in used of 72 hiowers, 72 gatherers, 85 cutters and 16 fisticulers for their haw tank furnace at Januaretts, Par. 180 inscribe an advertisement. The notice to the office stated that they proferred THE EVIDENCE OF IT.

anton men and native workmen. The firm sent Albert St. Peter, who is a member of L. A. 300, to 20 factories for the purpose of engaging workmen for the firm. St. Peter secured about ten, and some of them were filling places at the time they were cheaged, and it would have required ment of fill their places when they came to the tank to work.

A circular was sent to every preceptory in the organization asking them to report as soon as possible the number of tidle workmen in their preceptory. A large number of them never answered the circular, from the fact that they were appealing to the office for workmen to fill places at their own works."

SOME FACTS OF BECORD. A few of the answers received are inserted; but, as they are all about the same, it is unnecessary to reproduce them. The preceptors at nine factories state that they have no men to spare and some of them have not enough men. All of the apprentices were put to work under a ruling by President Campbell. The statement continues as follows:

President Campbell. The statement continues as follows.

'The Council and Assembly sent me out to look for file workmen. I visited some 23 furnaces and found them all short of workmen. Every place was short of workmen. Every place was short of workmen. The firm secured enough fatteners and cutters, members of L. A. 300, and it was impossible to seeme enough blowers and gatherers, from the fact that there was not enough file, and not enough workmen to keep the places running as they should, which every preceptor of the organization can testify to.'

Allusion is then made to the impossibility of either Messrs. Chambers or McKee transferring workmen from their Pittsburg fint factories to their window glass tank factory at Jeannette, or even of the few pot factory window men one of them controlled. It is asserted that, while some members of L. A. 200 opposed the tank factory on principle, they were left no alternative but to let Chambers & McKee take union men from abroad under their sanction, as applied for, or else get other workmen as best they might. Then President Campbell jumps right at his opponents, with the following skedge-hammer blows, in conclusion:

"It was held, too, that the organization would the following stedge-hammer blows, in conclusion:

"It was held, too, that the organization would not be able to establish a violation of the contract labor law if the firm was compelled to secure foreign workmen, from the fact that the union had been appealed to, and were unable to furnish workmen to fill the places. The suggestion was made that now was the time to test the Universal Federation. The members of the Federation were Knights of Labor. In the wears that the Federation had been in operation it had prevented hundreds of foreign workmen coming to this country. In fact only since the Federation has existed has there been not one single non-union factory in the country. The was the result of the policy of the Federation to keep their members at home except upon a call for men made necessary by the conditions of trade. Here was the first time that L. A. 300 was under the necessity of drawing on their union brethera in Europe. The world knows that enough men came from Europe to fill the vacant places.

JUST WHY THEY CAME.

JUST WHY THEY CAME. *These foreign workmen came to this country because there was room for them to work here. They are not under any contract with Chambers & McKee, L. A. 300, or anyone else, that I know of. McKee, L. A. 300, or anyone else, that I know of. The men are free to leave the employ of Chambers & McKee at any time they please. They did not displace anyone by going to work on the tank. They are receiving full union wages, obeying all the union rules, and it is not, as many people think, that the organisation is holding back apprentices from filling the places. If there had been apprentices to fill the places, they would have been given the preferences. As it requires several years' practice before a blower or gathering apprentice is able to fill the place, the cut down in the percentage of apprentices in 1885-86 is what causes the pluch now. There was no other way out of the dilemma for the interests of L. A. 300. The officers and members did what seemed best for every one concerned, and if there has been a violation of the law it was not intended so. The Universal Federation of Window Glass Workers was organized in good 'nith, and L. A. 300 will stand by the organization unless the laws of the United States prevent her from doing so. The fact that several factories burned down was a matter the organization had no control over. Otherwise the factories would not have burned.

Otherwise the factories would not have burned.

'If the Trades Council's Executive Committee had come to the office when they were first invited to do so, nothing would have been held from them. Everything in connection with the men coming would have been explained in full to the committee. The men who have been making the charges against the organization and officers have done everything they could to prejudice the minds of the people against the officers of L. A. 300, and the only way to test whether the law has been violated, is to prosecute the officers of L. A. 300 and have a legally constituted court decide whether there has been any violation of the contract labor law. The organization is satisfied to have the case tested in that way.

President L. A. 300, K. of L., Window Glass Workers.

S. McKee & Co.'s flint factory, which has been idle since the firm removed to Jeannette, will be started at the opening of the next fire as a chimney factory. The name of the new firm is not known, but Joseph McMurtney will be the general manager.

Mrs, Annie DeKnight Robinson, formerly of this city, who has been traveling through the Indian country in the West for several years, part of which time she spent with her sister, Miss Emma DeKnight, who is a teacher at the Indian training school on the Otoe reservation at Red Rock Agency, addressed a meeting at tke First M. P. Church, on Fifth avenue, last night, under the auspices of the Pittsburg and Allegheny Indian Association. Major A. M. Brown presided over the meeting. Mrs. Robinson's talk was very interesting

Mrs. Robinson's talk was very interesting and contained many points concerning the Indian under process of civilization that were new to her listeners. Among other things she said that the Indian children, if kept away from the influences of their uncouth, uncivilized parents, become bright, cleanly and industrious. These results were secured through the training schools, and the teachers and missionaries made it a point to keep the children as much away from their primitive homes as possible.

The lady also said that when properly trained the Indian children developed into very good singers. The moral training of the Indians was singers. The moral training of the indians was also dwelt upon at length, and the efficacy of the training school as a civiliang medium was pronounced the best yet attempted. Mrs. Robinson advocates the establishment of more training schools under the management of good Christian women.

The regular monthly meeting of the Indian Association will be held at 44 Stockton avenue, next Thursday afternoon.

Whisky Kills.

How bften are we yet to be told that whisky kills? Arsenic kills, opium kills, and so do hundreds of other good remedies kill if abused instead of used. But ask the question "Will whisky cure?" "Yes" is the positive reply of the most eminent physicians of all the land. Disease steals into your system like a sneak thief into your house, and often by the neglecting a bad cold we end our days in lingering and wishing for health, when, indeed, one bottle of pure whisky or brandy would have cured the cold. Good paper, large, clear type, substantial binding, and an excellent selection of works—these are the four cardinal points in favor of the "Gladstone" series. Naming the series after the great English statesman was also a happy thought, and will help to make these books popular. We have received the first installment, which includes the best works of Dickens, Thackeray, Cooper, Scott, Bulwer, Hughes, Marlitt, George Eliot, Mrs. Henry Wood, Ralph Iron, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Edna Lyall, Cervantes, Owen Meredith, Mary Cecil Hay, Edgar A. Poe, Wm. Black, etc. Also Bibles, Prayer Books, Hymnals, Stationery, School Supplies and Popular Musical Albums. Send for catalogue.
